1B BENEFICIARY NOMINATION

If you die before retirement age, the information that you provide below will assist the Trustees, in terms of Section 37C of the Pension Funds Act, to apportion the death benefit between your dependants and/or nominated beneficiaries (*also see note at the bottom of the page).

IMPORTANT: Your beneficiary nomination is not the same as your last will and testament. By law, the Trustees are required to do the apportionment in accordance with the Pension Funds Act (Section 37c).

If your beneficiary nomination should change, please ensure that you update this by completing and submitting a Beneficiary nomination form, available at oldmutual.co.za/protector under the tab "Forms and downloads". In this way, you can assist the trustees so that your dependents and nominated beneficiaries do not suffer any further undue hardships as a result of delayed payments.

What is the difference between a dependant and a nominated beneficiary?

The people who will receive part of your death benefit, should you pass away, are usually called beneficiaries. There are two kinds of beneficiaries, namely dependants and nominated beneficiaries or nominees.

A dependant is:

- A spouse to whom the member was married in accordance with a civil ceremony or a customary union;
- Children, whether over the age of 18 or not;
- Parents, whom the member may have been supporting, or
- Any other person to whom the member provided financial support, e.g. a person living with the deceased, a stepchild, a foster child or a friend

A nominated beneficiary is:

- a person who is not dependent on the member, but whom the member nominated to receive a portion of the death benefit

When distributing lump sum benefits, financial dependency is the overriding factor.

Should you wish to nominate any person/s, other than your dependants (see above), to receive a portion of the benefits payable on your death, please fill in their details below.

Remember that the percentage which you allocate below should add up to 100% although these allocations are suggestions only and are subject to discretion of the Trustees.

*Please note: The Trustees have a duty in terms of section 37C of the Pension Funds Act to distribute the death benefits between your dependants and/or nominees on an equitable basis, taking into account the extent of their financial dependency on the deceased. Dependants are defined according to specific criteria in the Act and may be either legal or factual dependants. Your nomination is not final but will assist the Trustees in making these decisions.

As your circumstances may change, it is recommended that you review your nomination periodically. You may alter your nomination at any time by notifying the Fund in writing or completing a Beneficiary Nomination Form. For a full explanation of section 37C contact your financial adviser.
