- Old Mutual Wealth Preservation (Pension) Fund
- Old Mutual Retirement Annuity
- Old Mutual Preservation (Provident)
- Old Mutual Preservation (Pension)

IMPORTANT NOTES

1. Legally, the trustees of the retirement funds will decide how the benefits will be allocated between your dependants and/or your nominated beneficiaries. The following persons are classified as your dependants:
   - Your surviving spouse
   - All your children, regardless of their age or whether they were adopted, from previous marriages, born out of wedlock or born after your death
   - Persons financially dependent on you or legally entitled to maintenance
2. Benefits will be paid to your surviving nominated beneficiaries provided that your estate is solvent and your dependants and any debt have been taken care of first.
3. If a nominated beneficiary is a minor and unmarried, the benefit will be paid to his/her legal guardian, legally recognised caregiver, trust or Beneficiary Fund.
4. An estate can not be nominated as a beneficiary. However, if no nominated beneficiary or dependant is traced within 12 months of the Retirement Fund being notified of your death, the benefits will be paid into your estate. If no estate inventory has been reported to the Master of the High Court, the benefits will be paid into the Guardian's Fund.
5. It is important that you complete this Beneficiary Nomination Form accurately and ensure that your beneficiaries are up to date, as this assists the trustees in allocating your benefits.
6. Where no legal dependents exist, benefits shall be allocated to nominated beneficiaries.
7. The trustees must carefully follow the law when allocating benefits, which is structured to ensure that anyone who was financially dependent on the deceased, is fairly considered. Please note that the trustees are not bound by this form and will consider a wide range of information in their allocation.
